Our Legal Obligations

We must make sure that information we collect and use about pupils is in line with the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR). This means that we must have a lawful reason to collect the data, and that if we share that with another organisation or individual, we must have a legal basis to do so.

The lawful basis for schools to collect information comes from a variety of sources, such as the Education Act 1996, Regulation 5 of The Education (Information About Individual Pupils) (England) Regulations 2013, Article 6 and Article 9 of the UK GDPR.

Under the UK GDPR, we rely on the following lawful bases when processing pupil information:

- For the purposes of providing education, supporting learning, assessing attainment and progress, managing attendance and behaviour, providing pastoral care and administering the school, in accordance with the legal bases of Article 6(1)(c) - compliance with a legal obligation - and Article 6(1)(e) - performance of a task in the public interest or exercise of official authority.
- For the purposes of safeguarding pupils, meeting statutory education duties, maintaining pupil records and completing statutory reporting and data collections, including the school census, in accordance with the legal bases of Article 6(1)(c) - compliance with a legal obligation - and Article 6(1)(e) - performance of a task in the public interest or exercise of official authority.
- For the purpose of administering optional paid-for services or activities where processing is necessary to enter into or perform an agreement, in accordance with the legal basis of Article 6(1)(b) - performance of a contract.
- For the purpose of responding to a medical or other emergency, in accordance with the legal basis of Article 6(1)(d) - protection of the vital interests of the pupil or another person.
- For the purpose of genuinely optional processing, such as certain photographs, recordings or activities, in accordance with the legal basis of Article 6(1)(a) - consent. Where we rely on consent, it may be withdrawn at any time.

The Department for Education and Local Authorities require us to collect certain information and report back to them. This is called a 'public task' and is recognised in law as it is necessary to provide the information. (Condition Article 9(2)(g) — processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest.)

We also have obligations to collect data about children who are at risk of suffering harm, and to share that with other agencies who have a responsibility to safeguard children, such as the police and social care. (Condition Article 9(2)(c) — processing is necessary to protect the vital interests of the pupil or another person where the individual is physically or legally incapable of giving consent.)

We also share information about pupils who may need or have an Education Health and Care Plan (or Statement of Special Educational Needs). Medical teams have access to some information about pupils, either by agreement or because the law says we must share that information, for example school nurses may visit the school. (Condition Article 9(2)(h) — processing is necessary for health or social-care purposes)

Counselling services, careers services, occupational therapists are the type of people we will share information, so long as we have consent or are required by law to do so. (Condition Article 9(2)(a) — the individual has given explicit consent to the processing. Explicit consent may be withdrawn at any time. Consent is used only where it is appropriate and can be withdrawn. The school does not rely on consent where information is required to perform a legal duty or public task.)

We must keep up to date information about parents and carers for emergency contacts.

We collect pupil information via admission forms, data collection forms at the start of the school year, Common Transfer File (CTF) or secure file transfer from previous school.

Some of this activity the School will need to carry out in order to fulfil its legal rights, duties or obligations – including those under a contract with parents of its pupils.

Other uses of personal data will be made in accordance with the School's legitimate interests, or the interests of another, provided that these are not outweighed by the impact on individuals and provided it does not involve special or sensitive data.
